IN REPLY
REFER TO GENERAL ORDER
No. 28-08

I. AUTHORITY: Authority of the Director, Defense Logistics Agency (DLA).

II. REFERENCE: Headquarters General Order No.10-05, dated December 22, 2005.

III. Pursuant to cited authority and effective immediately, the DLA Strategic Planning and Enterprise Transformation (J-5) establishes and realigns the following missions, functions, personnel, and resources.

A. The Strategy Management Division (J-51) is established. J-51 is responsible for developing the Agency's Strategic Plan. J-51 spearheads the Agency's strategic measures portfolio, Agency transformation, and monitors and provides consulting services for DLA Transformational needs.

i. The Enterprise Organizational Alignment (EOA) missions and functions are established in J-51. EOA is responsible for Enterprise-wide processes and policy for organizational alignment changes.

ii. The missions, functions, personnel, and resources in support of the General Order process and EOA support are transferred from the DLA Enterprise Support (DES) Business Management Office (DES-B) to J-51.

iii. The missions and functions as the lead agent to the DLA Vice Director in support of the Partners Group (PG) are established in J-51.

B. The Strategic Communications Division (J-52) is established. The J-52 is responsible for reporting and explaining new DLA policies, plans, and developments to the general public, DLA personnel, other DOD organizations, and the Military Services. J-5's Strategic Visual Communications is transferred to J-52.

C. The Continuous Process Improvement (CPI) Division (J-53) is established. J-53 is responsible for developing vision-aligned CPI strategies, CPI operational plans and metrics, provides focus, monitors performance and redirects the program as necessary to achieve established goals. The missions and functions from DLA Logistics Operations and Readiness (J-3/4) Materiel Policy, Process, and Assessment Executive Directorate (J-33) in support of Lean and Six Sigma are transferred to J-53.

IV. Administrative services and personnel support will be provided by existing DLA organizations as appropriate.

FOR THE DIRECTOR:

A. B. MORRILL III
Major General, USAF
Vice Director
